Experience a Week of Conservation and Sustainable Forestry in South Carolina
DESCRIPTION:
The SC Sustainable Forestry Teachers’ Tour is a professional development course designed for educators seeking a hands-on outdoor learning experience. Participants will visit forests, logging operations, and wood product mills around Georgetown, SC. Our course will give educators a comprehensive overview of SC’s $21 billion forest industry, looking closely at forestry’s economic, environmental, and social impact on our state. You will learn about sustainable forestry practices, conservation, endangered species, careers in forestry - and more - from the experts. Let nature inspire new teaching methods, recharge your batteries, and foster curiosity by learning how to integrate natural resource conservation into your own classroom.

You’ll receive 6.0 pre-approved CEUs, 60 renewal credits, or 3.0 hours of graduate credit. For those seeking graduate credits, online coursework will be required prior to the tour week via College of Charleston.

COST:
- $150 deposit, refunded following completion

FOR MORE INFORMATION, CONTACT:
Emily Oakman
- 803/798-4170 (O)
- eoakman@scforestry.org

Applications will be available January 06, 2020 at www.scforestry.org/teacher-s-tour. Applications will be accepted until April 3, 2020.